Today we'll cover

- Approaching Analytics
- Facebook Insights
 - What they mean
 - How to interpret them
 - So what? How to learn from and think about them
- Google Analytics
 - In-browser view
 - Analytics Dashboard
 - Where to look, what to see
- Brief Discussion of Instagram Analytics

Approaching Analytics

- “We will never throw data away”
 - Jeff Bezos
- “Walmart only relies on the previous 4 weeks of data for its day-to-day merchandising strategies.”
 - Forbes
- “Data analytics have no value on their own. Value is only derived when raw data is turned into insights, then translated into action.”
 - Jason Lee, Bain & Company

Big Data vs. Targeted Data

- Who are your customers?
- What content do they want?
- When are they online?

Who are your clients?

When are your clients online?

What are they interested in?

What pages do you...

What do these things mean?

- Reach = more eyeballs, growth, new customers
- Impressions = repeated exposure to new and current audience
- Post Clicks = people are visiting your post, intriguing, search?
- Reactions = low-level engagement, keeping people's attention
- Comments = more action = more engagement
- Shares = people think this would be useful to their friends and they are vouching for your business.

A quick note on FB advertisement

- Facebook can be a cost-effective way to advertise.

Takeaways

Data are only valuable if they generate action.

If you are a business: 💰💰💰 > 👍👍👍

Don't let the jargon intimidate you.

Start slow and simple, but you'll only learn by interacting with the data.

You CAN do this!
