

Farmers Market Price Reporting

The CCD collects and shares prices from Kentucky Farmers Markets each week during the season. This difficult-to-collect price information helps farmers and businesses to make informed pricing decisions to maximize the return to their operations, farms, and families. We have helped start reporting systems in 6 states, and post prices from Tennessee on our website.

From 2016-2024, a total of 25 different markets from across the state have participated in reporting prices through the CCD Farmers Market Price Report.

- Adair County
- Barren County
- Boone County
- Butler County
- Christian County
- Clay County
- Cumberland County
- Daviess County
- Fayette Co. (Bluegrass FM)
- Fayette County (Lex. FM)
- Fleming County
- Floyd County
- Hardin County
- Harlan County
- Harlan County
- Henderson County
- Jefferson County
- Jessamine Co.
- Johnson County
- Letcher County
- Mason County
- Metcalfe County
- Pike County
- Warren County
- Whitley County

108,442

Number of Farmers Market Price Reports downloaded from the CCD website from 2016-2024.

42,392

Number of 3 Year Average Farmers Market Price publications downloaded from CCD Website.

"Producers can utilize price reports for pricing their products to figure out what they can truly expect. In some cases they recognize that they can get more for their product even though they live in a rural area. With the reports, they have a better chance to get as much as they possibly can for a dozen ears of sweet corn in Lexington as compared to what they might in rural counties like Clay County or Pulaski County. We've utilized price reports in business plans to help show people what is real, what is possible. I think it's also those price reports have helped us help producers access either grant or loan funds. "

-Brent Lackey, Executive Director KCARD